

The enemy of my enemy is not my friend. Sebastian Vaughn is haunted by the ghost of his dead lover. After coming face to face with everything he lost, he's on the run with a deadly assassin who's on the verge of insanity. What else are you meant to do when the biggest ghost from your past stares you right in the face? Go with the flow, or die trying. Xavier Blood never thought he'd fall in love, let alone work for the good guys. Mercy Reid held him together during the darkest time of his life and now she's an agent alongside him. Working Black Ops for the British government means two things. No accountability and no association. Get caught and you're dead. Their first assignment puts them on the trail of Vaughn, the assassin who saved his life, and the last living man who took everything from him, Jaques Lafayette. The stakes are high, trust is a hot commodity and someone's going to die. Only time will tell who's blood will paint the world red.
